

TTT: Examples using Gherkin based frameworks (e.g. Cucumber)

Xray provides built-in support for BDD using Cucumber.

There are several variants of Cucumber, for different languages.

As long as these different flavours are able to produce a compatible Cucumber JSON report, then those results can be seen and managed in Xray.

- Testing using Cucumber in Java
- Testing using Cucumber in Ruby/JRuby
- Testing mobile apps in the cloud \(BrowserStack\) using Appium and Cucumber in Ruby
- Testing using Behave in Python
- Testing using Calabash and Xamarin Test Cloud in Ruby
- Testing using Cucumber in Perl
- Testing using SpecFlow and Gherkin scenarios in C#
- Testing using Serenity BDD and Cucumber in Java
- Testing web applications using Gwen and Selenium
- Testing Node.js apps using Cucumber.js in JavaScript
- Testing using Cypress and Cucumber in JavaScript
- Testing using WebDriverIO and Cucumber in JavaScript