Release highlights

Next-Gen Projects 😊

You can now create and configure Xray issue types in next-gen projects. Notice that project admins need to manually create the needed issue types and after map these issue types to the Xray entities.

New gadget that lists Requirements with coverage status

This gadget provides a quick way of evaluating the current status of your project tests. You're able to visually identify the requirements by filtering them beforehand and determine their coverage status.

In the gadget configuration, users can set the analysis scope and source. The source can be either a project or a saved filter. With the analysis scope, users can calculate the Coverage Status by:

- Latest: considering the latest execution for each Test
- Version: considering only Test Executions for a specific version
- Test Plan: considering only Test Executions with the context of a Test Plan

Create Defects as sub-task issues

Users are now able to create defects from the execution screen that are sub-tasks. For instance, you can have a Sub-bug issue type that is created as a defect in a given parent Story.
