Solution:

Don't worry, the message you are getting is indeed annoying as it is not the correct one. This is the message that you should be getting:

A light blue rectangular box representing an evaluation license message. On the left side, there is a small blue circle containing a white lowercase 'i'. To the right of this icon, the text "Evaluation license" is displayed in a bold, dark blue font. Below this line of text, the text "This is an evaluation license that will expire on 2030-01-01. If you like Xray, please consider buying it." is displayed in a smaller, regular, dark blue font.

Evaluation license
This is an evaluation license that will expire on 2030-01-01. If you like Xray, please consider buying it.

This message is shown only during the evaluation of the product, and it does not represent any restrictions on the product features. So you have the full product and only getting this message during evaluation.

Those "codes" represent the actual messages and only are shown when the language resource files were not correctly installed. If you reinstall Xray, it will fix this problem, don't worry as no data will be lost during this process.
